History

On December 16, 2009, Portland City Council passed a resolution that requires City Bureaus to include at least one minority evaluator provided by the Alliance of Minority Chambers in the contract award process. On January 27, 2010 the Portland Development Commission (PDC) Board passed a similar resolution. Minority evaluators will serve on all contractor evaluation and selection panels that will be awarding City or PDC contracts in excess of formal solicitation thresholds that are not awarded on a low bid basis.

Provisions of the resolutions will be implemented through the Minority Evaluator Program by the City of Portland Procurement Services and PDC.

What is Procurement Services?

Procurement Services is part of the Bureau of Internal Business Services within the Office of Management and Finance and resides within the Mayor's portfolio of Bureaus. Procurement Services is responsible for making sure the procurement process is fair, efficient, effective and accountable to everyone. Because of the large sums of money involved, what we buy and how we purchase those goods and services is critical to the City of Portland and its community.

What is PDC?

PDC serves as the urban renewal agency for the City of Portland and works toward a strong regional economy, quality jobs and revitalization of neighborhoods. This work is done through PDC-owned contracts with various services and goods providers as well as through development and loan agreements with the private sector.

About our Community Partner
